

STAGE FRIGHT — As one of the field judges comes up from behind, a color guard member of the Royal Lancers Drum and Bugle Corps, Portland, seems almost petrified with stage fright during the Pageant of Percussion, Northwest Drum and Bugle Championship Finals at Memorial Stadium Saturday. The Lancers took second place in Class A. The Patriots of Spokane were named top corps, followed by the Lancers, the Titans of Bremerton, Wash.; and the Seattle Cascades. In Class B, the Edmonton (Alta.) Strutters took first place. Great Falls' Golden Skyliners were second, and the Edmonton Klondike were third. The lone entry in Class C, the Cavaliers of Calgary, were awarded the first place Class C trophy. (Tribune Photo by Stuart White)
