MARKSMEN JR. DRUM & BUGLE CORPS

The Marksmen for 1975 are a culmination of the merger between two highly successful corps from the Pacific Northwest. Corps one was the Seattle Shamrocks, a long time champion and major contender since 1958. The second corps was the Bellevue Sentinels, another outstanding and highly competitive corps since 1965.

The merger brought about the largest corps to ever be assembled in the Northwest and the first corps from the area to have the potential to become a national champion - a goal of all corps.

With a total membership of over 160, the Marksmen will field a competitive corps of 115 marching and playing members.

As well as participating in their local area, the Marksmen will be on a 26 day tour throughout the midwest and east where the Corps will take part in activities in the following cities: Great Bend and Wichita, Kansas, Whitewater, Wisconsin, Washington, Pennsylvania; Marion, Ohio; North Tonawanda, New York; Emporium, Pennsylvania and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, a tour of over 7,200 miles.

The staff, management and members of the Marksmen wish to thank all those responsible for inviting them to participate in this contest.

ARGONAUTS

Salem, Oregon

The Argonauts Drum and Bugle Corps was founded in the fall of 1974 as an outgrowth of the Salem Flamingo D&B Corps. The corps you see on the field today is the result of many long hours of planning. New uniforms, new sounds and a new style were brought together in an effort to present to the viewing audience a new pleasure in competitive drum corps. Travel plans for this year include DCI West in Boise, the VFW National Championships in Los Angeles, and of course the hosting of the DCW Championships in Salem, OR on Aug. 30 & 31.

Repertoire: Coronation Scene from "Boris Godunov" (Entrance) Rimsky-Korsakov; The Jericho Rhapsody (Production) Morton Gould; Excerpts from the Overture to the Broadway Musical "Candide" (Into Concert) Leonard Bernstein; Excerpts from "Candide" (Concert) Leonard Bernstein; What a Day for a Auto de fe (from "Candide") (Out of Concert) Leonard Bernstein; Make Our Garden Grow (from "Candide") (Exit) Leonard Bernstein.

Staff and Management: Exec. Director, Courtney Jones; Corps Manager, Howard Hawley; Booster Club Pres., Joyce Matthys; Brass Arrangements, Dave Hill; Choreography, Bruce Keller; Brass Instruction, Dave Hill & Darrel Meisenheimer; M&M Instruction, Bruce Keller & Terry Hanson; Asst. ## SEATTLE CASCADES

Seattle, Washington

Since formation in the spring of 1966 the Seattle Cascades Drum and Bugle Corp has entertained millions of people thru-out the Northwest with its music and pageantry, and their colorful Red, White and Blue uniforms have become a familiar sight at major parades and festivals in the Northwest and Western Canada.

The membership of the Seattle Cascades Drum and Bugle Corp consists of approximately 100 boys and girls, primarily from the north end of Seattle, but members come from all sections of King County and southern Snohomish County. Their ages range from 12 to 21 with the majority being Jr. High School age. Drum Major—Mark Worthen, 18, Student at Shoreline Community College; Captain—Donna Creager, 17, Student at Ballard High School.

The instruction of the Seattle Cascades is ably handled by the following young men and women who are listed with their former Drum Corp affiliations. Marching: Phil Madden—Kilties (Racine, Wisc.), Frank Boyko—Troopers (Casper, Wyo.); Music Director: Ed Petkavich—Yankee Rebels (Baltimore, Md.); Bugles: Ed Haney—Music Director, Inglemoor High School, Bruce Bock—Cascades; Drums: Garth Stubbs—Norwood Park (Chicago, Ill.), Thunderbirds (Seattle); Color Guard: Carol Bock—Cascades, Connie Rockman—Cascades.

THE THIRD REGIMENT, PORTLAND OREGON

The Third Regiment Drum Corps, combining the members of the Royal Lancers and the Hawks Drum Corps, came about in May of this year at the urging of members of both corps. Their desire was to see one large drum corps from the Portland area and their dream has come true. An incredible amount of hard work has been done these last two and a half months; what other corps have been working on since last October, we started in May. Everything, from choosing the music to learning a drill, has been compressed into these short weeks and the members of the The Third Regiment are to be congratulated on their perserverance and dedication. The staff also deserves recognition for their efforts for as many hours are spent behind the scenes as on the practice field.

This year's competition drill starts Off The Line with a fanfare and Mahler '75, arranged by Wayne Downey. The drums are featured next with a drum line solo, moving the corps into their presentation of the American Flag with the Corps playing God Save the Queen. Soloists Greg Hall, Jerry Boose, Ed Butler, Meiko Yeakey and Mike Haugen are featured in Havah Nagila. Our concert number, Live and Let Die, utilizes the talents of the whole corps, including soloists Greg Hall, Dean Long and Ken Rust. Out of the concert formation the Corps plays Look Around, featuring Meiko Yeakey and Jerry Boose solos in our exit number, I've Got To Be Me. We hope you enjoy our performance.

OREGON CRUSADERS

Sheridan, Oregon

The Oregon Crusaders Drum and Bugle Corps formed as a competition color guard in the winter of 1970. First efforts took them throughout the northwest to participate in parades and competitions. Music was added and this hard-working group of young musicians became an official competition corps.

Continued active effort on the part of corps members, parents and interested boosters has brought this dedicated group of young people into strong contention for the 1975 season. This year, the Crusaders' musical repertoire and marching will make them a winning Corps.

Staff: Chairman of the Board, Norman Cox; Manager, Marvin Eggersgluss; Music and Drills, Ron Jones; Drum Music, Roger Allen; Color Guard Instructor, Dana Walter; Color Guard Commander, Sheri Granquist; Horn Instructor, Todd Bayless; Rifle Instructor and Drum Major, Debbie Jenkins.

HOW A DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS IS JUDGED

In order to understand how a drum corps is judged, the novice in the stands seeing his first contest must realize one thing, drum and bugle corps as you see it tonight is one of America's true art forms. It's concept method of judging instruments have been developed to fit the needs of the developing activity. All the drum and bugle music has been specially arranged for each unit as well as each drill that is presented.

Judging is not to expose the big errors that are at times obvious to the viewer in the stands but to the small technical errors that are only noticeable to the trained eye, or ear. 60% of the scoring is based on the tick system, for every error, 1/10 of a point, 1 tick, is deducted. This 60% of the score is in the execution captions 40% of the score is on a build up caption, that is the General Effects, (G.E.) areas of judging.

The Captions:

MARCHING AND MANUEVERING EXECUTION:

This is the ability of a unit to march, and is judged on the tick system. How well they keep a line straight, the spacing between men is equal, all the flags go down and up together, out of step, that each member carries himself well, with the pride and dignity.

BRASS EXECUTION:

This is judged on the tick system and the brass section is judged on its ability to play together, its attacks and releases, cracked notes, and if the horn is brought up and down together.

DRUMMING EXECUTION:

The drum line is judged much like the horn line in this caption, also a tick caption, each section must play its part well together, stick heights must be even, each player must hit his drum in the same area.

MARCHING AND MANUEVERING G.E.:

This is a build up caption, and is scored on how well the corps presents its program, (marching) that all areas of the show are fully developed to please the crowd.

BUGLE G.E.:

This is a build up caption and is much like G.E. Marching. It is scored on how much emotion is brought out from the crowd and the judge, how well the music fits together and general appeal.

DRUM G.E.:

Also a build up caption, and is judged on the varied off rhythm patterns used, how the drum music fits the horn music, and the appeal of the drumline to the crowd.

MUSIC ANALYSIS:

This is a build up caption, and is to analyze the correlation of the music to the other areas of the drill, the difficulty of the musical presentation.

Last, one must remember that in all captions the key to judging is based on the uniformity within the section, the ability to do well together.
